HAPPY MOTHERHOOD

The happiness of motherhood is too often checked because the mother's strength is not equal to her cares, while her unselfish devotion neglects her own health. It is a duty of husband or friend to see that she gets the pure medicinal nourishment in Scott's Emulsion, which is not a drug or stimulant but nature's concentrated oil-food tonic to enrich and enliven the blood, strengthen the nerves and aid the appetite. Physicians everywhere prescribe Scott's Emulsion for overworked, nervous, tired women; it builds up and holds up their strength. Get Scott's at your nearest drug store.

DAME FASHION SENDS OUT HER NEWEST DECREES

Loose Armholes Giving Way to Fitted Sleeves of Basque Waist.

NEW YORK, July 9.—A great deal of talk has been occasioned by the protest made by the women at the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Chicago recently against the modern styles. The resolution stated that the clothes worn were extreme, immodest and lacking in beauty. This was signed by 40,000 women. A deputation of women were appointed in each district to interview the manufacturers and dressmakers and request them to design and make simpler and more modest dresses.

that it almost made one wonder at times if there was an armhole at all. Waists of different styles are already showing that this has an influence upon them and are appearing with smaller armholes. A strong tendency exists towards embellishing seams in some way. For instance, sleeves are put in with a cording around the armholes or narrow lace or beading is used. This is a very pretty way of making a simple waist attractive.

From all sides we hear rumors of wider skirts and yet when we examine the models we find the largeness consists in a large quantity of material in draperies, in flounces or tunics, while the underskirt or foundation remains as narrow or narrower than ever. The tendency of these tunics is to widen out, measuring about 2½ to 3 yards in width, with the fulness gathered in at the waist. This style is practical to develop in sheer and summery materials, and later possibly for the development of the heavier fabrics.

The tremendous popularity of lace is evidenced in the wraps and gowns displayed of these materials for midsummer. Long tunics of lace are worn over underskirts of satin, taffeta and chiffon. Coats and capes of lace have superseded those of chiffon and taffeta. Skirts are made with ruffles of lace from hip to hem. If one is fortunate enough to possess old lace it may be used to the greatest advantage this season. Among the most popular of the laces are, first and foremost, Chantilly, then maline, shallow and filet lace. The old Spanish patterns are being revived in borders on net foundations. The great novelty of the season's laces are the metal laces. Gold and silver laces in dainty and quaint designs combine charmingly with soft taffeta and satins. Net top of crystal, gold or silver, and are much used for tunics on dancing and evening frocks. A dress of changeable blue and pink has a skirt with a long tunic of net delicately embroidered in iridescent beads which harmonized charmingly with the changeable effect of the silk.

Black lacquered ribbon is now superseded by white lacquered ribbon, and, together with pert little wings trim a small white hat stunningly. This is decidedly a season of white. Never has there been so many all white costumes so immensely popular

A Waist Showing the Armhole and Skirt With Double Flounces

This is a heroic measure on the part of the American women, and one that is hardly apt to meet with success as long as Paris is the recognized source from which the styles of the day originate. This distinction is held by the Parisians because after all is said and done they have virile ideas upon the subject of dress and are able to carry them out to artistic advantage. Until it is decided that some other place shall be the arbiter of what we shall, and shall not wear, this protest will have but little influence.

With the vogue for the basque and polonaise come many styles which have their origin in these but are modified to suit the women to whom the mentioned styles are not becoming. These last are moyen age in type, being long of waist and loosely belted in at the waist with belt or sash. One stunning dress of this variety is of white silk with chiffon overwaist which hangs straight from the shoulders to the depth of a long tunic, but held in by sash which runs through slits made in the chiffon. This is a style which is easily applied to cotton materials, such as crepe, batiste and others.

The simple but dainty designs called the polka dot and the ring have had a long period of being unnoticed or, at least not noticeable smart. But this summer they are to be seen in foulards, in wash silks, in cotton crepes and, of course, percales and calicos. In the illustration is a simple and attractive dress made of percale with a blue ring strewn across its surface. The waist shows the new tendency of the armhole which is growing smaller and the skirt has two circular flounces. Crisp white collar and cuffs and crushed girdle are the finishing touch. This is a dress which can easily serve as the model by which to plan a dress. With waist and skirt of striped material and flounces of plain it would be unusual in its attraction. Another way of finishing the dress would be to bind the ruffle of the sleeve, the collar and the flounces with a color matching the figure in the percale.

Never was a style revived in greater completeness than the basque. In the tightness of the armhole and the buttons down the front, and the points at the waist this modern basque is an exact replica of its ancestor. The plain fitting long tunic skirt is a conservative model of its type and one which the woman of full figure can easily wear.

The armhole of the basque waist is snug and certainly looks almost queer, after the looseness of the kimono blouse we have worn so long and which gives so much freedom as at the present. How sensible, for if one must be economical it must be acknowledged that white, at least, does not fade, which cannot be said of the charming pinks and blues, which are so alluring upon the counters of the stores.

Veils are very smart and most becoming. They no longer come down over the face in an unbecoming manner, but just touch the tip of the nose. The diagonal mesh is popular and should have a single, double or triplet border of tiny chenille or thin velvet dots. Many novelties are shown in these, but they should be read of as novelties, for instance, some veils are shown with a tiny peacock, beetle or butterfly embroidered upon one side in natural colors. Who but the person loving to be conspicuous would care to wear one of these?

CURED OF INDIGESTION.

Mrs. Sadie P. Clawson, Indiana, Pa., was bothered with indigestion. "My stomach pained me night and day," she writes. "I would feel bloated and have headache and belching after eating. I also suffered from constipation. My daughter had used Chamberlain's Tablets and they did her so much good that she gave me a few doses of them and insisted upon my trying them. They helped me as nothing else has done." For sale by all dealers. (adv-july)
